It seems that said Secretary placed bonds to this amount in the keeping of the "Nation Trust Company" bank, to be negotiated, the proceeds to go to the building of an addition to the city water works. The cashier of that bank sold s portion of these bonds and hypothecated the balance for loans in Philadelphia, and then, one fine morning, turned up missing, leaving his bank to foot the bill to the city, which they will be compelled to Blame of gross carelessness is laid upon the Water-works Commission, especially upon the Secretary, who neglected to follow up the bonds when placed with the bank for negotiation and to see that the proceed were promptly placed to the credit of the A meeting of the City Council was held Monday, at which it was stated that the stockholders of the "Nation Trust Company" Bank were individually liable for the proceeds of the bonds, and that they represented a pecuniary responsibility of $20,000,000. This announcemen had a soothing effect on the Council, but still does not allay the excitement among the people up there, who by this time are badly demoralized over the rapid succession of failures and defaults that have taken place in that community since the
